

Brownie Troop 2896 Notes

October 18, 2006

If all went as planned, today we finished up two try-its: Science in Action and Science Wonders. We started doing some things related to this at Camp Crowell, but we did many more today. The experiments going home include one on growing crystals—please note that they will take 7-10 days to grow, so try to make sure they hang around somewhere in your house for that long so the girls can see what happens.

Girls were also supposed to bring in their “good deeds” coupons for us to discuss. I did email those a few weeks ago, and will get them posted on the website. Because I’ve had computer problems for the last week or so, I’m a little behind on getting things posted to the website but will email you when I’m caught up.

Please start looking for a copy of “Charlotte’s Web” to read. The movie is being released in December, and we will have some CW related activities planned. We’ve also talked about possibly going to see the movie as a troop for our “Beyond the Covers” patch.

Next meeting: October 30 (MONDAY)—This is a joint meeting with another troop to celebrate Juliette Gordon Low’s birthday on October 31. We will have our rededication ceremony on this day, and at that time we will give out try-its/badges earned to date. Also, girls should bring in at least one pair of used shoes to donate to Art for Humanity.

Important date just added to calendar: Saturday, November 18
Calendar sales at Huntsman Giant from 1pm-3pm
