

Brownie Troop 2896 Notes

October 30, 2006

Much of today should have been somewhat of a repeat for the girls, as we celebrated the birthday of the founder of Girl Scouts, Juliette Gordon Low. We read the Brownie story (which you can find on the home page of our website) and played the “Kim’s game” we learned last year—it’s basically a memory game that, in this case, was played with objects that reminded us of the life of Low.

We also practiced an action story, or play, about Low’s life that we performed as part of our rededication ceremony. At the rededication, all the girls received a new membership pin, the two science try-its that we completed at the last meeting (Science in Action and Science Wonders), and an Honor Troop patch that we received for our overall performance as a troop last year. Most girls also received the summer fun patch for the first time this year, or another year bar to add to the bottom of the summer fun patch. A couple received a swimming patch for their effort at recent the synchronized swimming workshop.

Thanks for helping the girls find shoes to send to Honduras through “Art for Humanity” as our first service project for the year. To get more information about this organization, check out their website at <http://www.artforhumanity.org/home.htm>

As a reminder, girls should be reading “Charlotte’s Web.” Depending on how far along everyone is, we will do some Charlotte’s Web activities at one of the two next meetings.

Next meeting: November 15 (WEDNESDAY)

Other important dates: November 18 = calendar sales booth
