HIGH WINDS TWIST BAG TAG CHALLENGE

Marion, OH: March 6, 2005. MOODGolfers gather for an interesting round at Sawyer Ludwig DGC. Club members join together and supply enough temporary targets to set up an 18 hole course which included the current 10 permanent holes.

The singles round (Bag Tag Challenge) was instigated by most MOODGolfers in attendance.

Winds in excess of 25 mph caused plenty of frustration and over par scores on the revised course during the round. The strong winds caused drives to drop almost immediately upon released. Putts, even as close as five feet, posed a challenge for top tag holders. The doubles round found better scores but only one team scored under par. Ian Cooper and Ken Rollins carded the best score of 53. Even with the tough conditions, everyone had a great time and talked about doing it again soon.

The highlight of the day was for Dave Stevens during the doubles round. Dave hit mega chains on temp hole H. The drive hit the target very hard in the center of the pole and was rejected by the existing elements, not to mention the alternative mojo from the basket's owner. TWO FOR TWO IN LOCAL PDGA TOURNAMENTS

Sam Nicolosi shows out at two of the most recent PDGA tournaments.

FIRST PLACE INTERMEDIATE
March Mudder, Vienna Park, Temperance, MI March 12

FIRST PLACE TIE INTERMEDIATE
March Madness, BHMDGC, Columbus, OH March 19

Nicolosi has established a personal goal for 2005. Sam plans to attend many of the regions PDGA tournaments during the 2005 season. His game has exhibited a cool and calm flow that has proven to work well under adverse conditions. During the March Mudder the cold temperatures and snow covered ground has very little effect on the rounds. After the first round, Sam is tied with two others in his division. During the break Sam stated, "I will just play smart, take the pars when in doubt, and be aggressive when possible" Great personal advice as it gained him his first PDGA win!

With the March Mudder behind him, Sam focused his practice rounds toward fluid drives and exceptional putting.

During the ride to March Madness, Sam exhibited a clam and relaxed manner. The day's weather was unpredictable although the first round was extraordinary. Great first round play placed Nicolosi in the top card at second place. During the break the conditions turned unfavorable for enjoyable play. You might say that the weather helped push the "fun envelope" just a bit. The torrential rains did not effect Sam as he was able to play well enough to tie for 1st place.

Keep an eye on Sam if your in the Intermediate Division. Chances are he's looking for YOU!
